Follow-Up and Invitation Scripts

Eight scripts from the LifeCharter Command Suite Starter Library. Use them as a starting place and make them sound like you. [Brackets] are yours to fill in. (Parentheses) are stage directions, never words to send.

Decision-Date Check-In

Use to follow up briefly on the date a prospect said they would decide, with no pressure.

Hi [First name], you mentioned you would decide on [date], so I am checking in. Where are you at with [your offer]? A yes, a no, or a not yet are all fine with me. If you have questions, I am happy to answer them.

EMAIL

Proposal Follow-Up

Follow up 2–3 days after sending a proposal.

Subject: Your proposal for [Project]

Hi [Name],

I wanted to check in on the proposal I sent on [date]. Have you had a chance to look through it?

I'm happy to go over any part of it or adjust anything that doesn't feel right — [pricing, scope, timeline].

If it helps, we could take 15 minutes on [Day] to walk through it together.

Best,
[Your Name]

After a Sales Call That Ended in Maybe

Use after a conversation where the person was interested but unsure, to ask what would help them decide.

Subject: Following up on our conversation

Hi [First name],

Thank you for speaking with me on [date]. It sounded like [their goal] matters a lot to you, and that you are still weighing a few things before deciding on [offer].

Is there anything I can clarify, such as [common question], [common question], or how the first month would look? I am glad to answer honestly, even if the answer helps you decide it is not a fit.

If you would like, we can talk again on [day]. Otherwise, take the time you need.

Warm regards,
[Your name]

Second Follow-Up After Silence

Use when your first nudge went unanswered and you want to check in again without any pressure.

Subject: Still happy to help with [topic]

Hi [First name],

I wanted to follow up on my note from [date] about [topic]. I know inboxes fill up fast, so please do not worry if it slipped by.

If it is still on your radar, I can send over [what you offered] or find a short time to talk on [day] or [day]. If the timing is not right, just let me know and I will gladly step back.

Either way, I am glad we connected.

Warm regards,
[Your name]

Third and Final Follow-Up

Use as the last gentle message in a sequence so the person feels free to reply or to close the loop.

Subject: Closing the loop on [topic]

Hi [First name],

This will be my last note about [topic], since I do not want to crowd your inbox. I have reached out a couple of times and understand that priorities shift.

If you would like to pick this up, reply with a quick yes and I will send [next step]. If now is not the moment, that is completely fine, and you are welcome to reach out whenever things change.

Thank you for your time, and I wish you well with [their goal or project].

Kind regards,
[Your name]

Still on Your Radar Check-In

Send to a lead or past client who went quiet, as a gentle nudge that asks for nothing.

Hi [First name], it is [Your name]. I was thinking about our conversation on [topic] and wondered how things are going with [their goal]. No pressure at all. If it is still on your radar, I am happy to share [helpful resource or next step]. If the timing has changed, that is completely fine too. I just wanted to say hello.

Re-Engagement Email

Wake up a quiet subscriber or past client.

Subject: Still interested in [topic]?

Hi [Name],

It's been a while since we connected, and I wanted to check whether [topic] is still something you care about.

A lot has changed at [Your Business]: [update 1] and [update 2].

If it's helpful, here's [best resource or offer]: [link].

If you'd rather not hear from me, you can [unsubscribe/opt out here]. No hard feelings!

Invitation to a Free Event

Send to your list or past clients to invite them to a free workshop, webinar or open session.

Subject: You are invited: [event name] on [date]

Hi [First name],

I am hosting a free [event type] and would love to see you there.

[Event name] is on [date] at [time and time zone], [online or location]. We will cover [topic one], [topic two] and [topic three], and you will leave with [takeaway].

It is open to anyone who wants to [who it is for or their goal]. There is no cost and no obligation, just practical help and time for your questions.

Save your spot here: [registration link]

Cannot make it live? Register anyway and I will send you [replay or notes] afterward.

Feel free to bring a friend or colleague who would find it useful.
